Jackson Journeys

Another day in Pope Valley, we met an interesting and unusual character named Tom Neal, who runs the store and post office in conjunction with a curio shop. He had been sheriff for many years and was persuaded by our driver (an old Irishman named John Ballentine) to recount some of his experiences for us. Still deputy sheriff, he came to Pope Valley from Nevada with his family in 1878.

On display in the curio shop (museum) would be a better word were many kind of foreign money including several varieties of occupation currencies and even a Canadian dollar bill (evidently to prove that some Americans had, at some time, visited that far away frozen northland). Rifles, revolvers, pistols, swords, daggers, bayonets and knives were there in profusion. We examined a great variety of quartz rock containing many kinds of minerals. The walls were richly decorated with many different deer horns, mountain sheep horns and many other horns. It was a most interesting place, and would require several days to see everything in it. We promised Tom that if we ever visited California again we would certainly call to see him.

On March 10th, we said goodbye to our friends in St. Helena, drove over to Santa Rosa and caught a bus to Eureka. Arriving that evening we were met by Ray Patten and we spent the next three days with Ray and Kay Patten who are cousins of Jim and Miss Donaghy. We really enjoyed ourselves in Eureka—sightseeing and meeting many people, mostly Irish. Ray and Mrs. Patten are living proof that Irish hospitality doesn't lose anything by becoming Americanized.

Leaving Eureka on Friday morning, March 13th, our Greyhound bus travelled a highway which passed through national park where we saw elk pasturing contentedly on both sides. We passed through Crescent City and continued on the coast highway through Oregon and through Ocean Lake, and Lincoln County. We reached the Salmon River cut-off where we swung inland towards Portland. Soon we saw snow on the mountains. Portland, as seen from the southwest at night is a really wonderful sight with the blaze of multi-colored neon signs glowing against the darkened backdrop of the sky.

Election Date June 18th

Alberta's politicians are off and running in a short, swift campaign race to the provincial general election on Thursday, June 18. Premier Manning named the day Saturday evening, thus ending months of speculation and opening six weeks of campaigning.

Nomination day is June 4. The election is the third called this year in Canada. Manitoba voters go to the polls on Thursday, and Ontario voters June 11.

There will be 65 seats at stake in the Legislature, an increase of four over last election. So far 150 candidates have been named by the four major parties, and the total is expected to exceed 200.

The previous election was held on June 29, 1955.

Funeral Held Here For Irma Pioneer Resident

WILLIAM ALFRED BURTON

William Alfred Burton passed peacefully away at his home in Vancouver on Monday, May 4th. He had made a good recovery from a serious illness last fall so that the end came unexpectedly.

Mr. Burton was born on March 2nd, 1877 at Dunmow, Essex, England and came to Canada for the first time in 1898. Returning home he was married in 1903 to Edith Alice Rowe. They came together to Edmonton in 1905 and homesteaded north east of Irma in 1908 before the railway came through. Thus Mr. Burton was one of the earliest settlers and the home he built was the first residence for miles around. He was a very active and successful farmer, taking a keen interest in the Irma Agricultural Society and the U.G.G. He served for many years on the Municipal Council, acting for a period as Reeve.

In 1944 he retired from farming and took up residence in Vancouver. There he was able to enjoy his favorite hobby of gardening to the full. He was a member of the Rose Society in Vancouver, acting as both an exhibitor and a judge.

Funeral services were held first from Mt. Pleasant Funeral Chapel at Vancouver and on Saturday, May 9th from the Irma United Church. Rev. H. W. Inglis was in charge. The hymns were "Abide With Me" and "Nearer My God to Thee." Mrs. R. L. Simmerman sang "Beyond the Sunset."

WESTERN ROASTING CHICKEN WEEK

May 11-16

Specialized, large volume, integrated production, and extensive sales promotion of fryer chicken and small broiler-size turkeys, particularly in the large population areas of Canada, has served to curtail the demand for roaster size chicken. Consequently, there is in Saskatchewan a generous supply of this delicious meat available at economical prices.

Roasting chickens are a product of dual purpose flocks (egg and meat production), kept on a majority of Saskatchewan family-size farms. They have no export outlet, are not price supported, and are not produced under any integrated program. They are grown by our own Saskatchewan producers as a necessary step in providing a cash return and a market for surplus grain.

The larger, fully grown, well-finished, Western roasting chicken has a delicious taste all its own, and is high in protein compared to calorie and fat content.

Reduction of present stocks through increased local consumption will materially help to assure a reasonable price to Saskatchewan producers in their 1959 crop of roasting chicken.

REARING STOCK The supply of North County Chiefton breeding stock in Ontario will not meet the demand for the coming year. There is only one breeder in the province with a steady flock and there are about 10 smaller flocks ranging in size from five to 20 head. The smaller flock owners are trying to increase their female holdings!

What do you know about this plane?

—The Sun, Grenfell, Sask.

Can readers of the Sun help Nelson Merrifield, a former Grenfellite of Port Arthur, Ont., with information about the pilot of the above plane and the year he came with it to a May 24 celebration in Grenfell.

Mr. Merrifield, who took the picture of the plane, believes it would be soon after First War ended and that the man came from Wapella, Grenfell. Sun files are somewhat inadequate for around that period.

Mr. Merrifield says he doesn't think the pilot was R. J. Croome of Moose Jaw who flew the first licensed plane in Canada.

Information about the above plane is wanted by Nelson in connection with the 50th Anniversary of Flight being celebrated this year.

In his letter to the Sun, Nelson writes, "I remember I was on the committee and Dr. A. J. Brett and I grabbed a Ford parked at the fairgrounds and went up town to get this chump about his day."

Nelson, who worked in Claxton's store some 40 years ago, used to fly with his parents and sister, Dorothy, in the house now owned by Mrs. J. McCready. His dad was a tailor by trade. Nelson had considerable talent as a display and sign writer.

He says he hopes to visit Grenfell some day. He is sure he would find a lot of changes. He sends his regards to all Grenfellites who may remember him.

His present address is 226 Annapolis Street, Port Arthur, Ont. Anyone with information about the plane is asked to contact Mr. Merrifield or the Sun office.

More people interested in turkey production

"Recent statistics would indicate that more and more people are becoming interested in turkey production in Canada," E. M. Campbell, poultry commissioner with the Saskatchewan department of agriculture, said in an interview this week.

He noted that according to the Canada Department of Agriculture, 24 percent more eggs were laid this year, for mature weight birds, than the case one year ago. For broiler weight birds, the increase was 61.4 percent over one year ago.

"In light of this increased interest in turkey production, observations noted in 'Turkey Raising in Saskatchewan', a pamphlet on turkey raising, distributed by the University of Saskatchewan College of Agriculture, are most apt," said Mr. Campbell.

"Beginners in the business should pay particular heed to the advice given regarding size of the flock," he went on. "The beginner, and especially those with little or no previous experience, should plan on raising only a few birds, say 100 to 200, in the first year. By doing so, experience will be gained under conditions that will not involve any great loss if things do not work out as planned."

"There is also the very important matter of financing to consider," he said. "The university pamphlet rightly emphasizes the fact that turkey raising in a commercial way involves considerable financing. For a flock of 1,000 birds, a working capital of at least $4,000 is needed to pay such cash items as the cost of the pullets, the fuel for the brooders and feed costs."

"It is also emphasized that profits in turkey farming vary from year to year and from farm to farm," Mr. Campbell continued. "The proportion of cash costs to income received is high and the margin of profit is modest."

"Those who may be considering entering the turkey farm field would be most wise to consider

KILL THE RAT

More than 200,000 rats have been exterminated since 1951 along a 360 mile front of the Saskatchewan-Alberta border, through a year round rat control program conducted by the Alberta Department of Agriculture in co-operation with various municipal governments. The program is maintaining Alberta's status as Canada's only rat-free province.

The rat invasion from Saskatchewan began in 1950. The Pest Control Division of the Agriculture Department initiated a control program and, during 1952-53 called in professional exterminators to temporarily halt the invasion. Since 1950 the program has cost approximately $235,000 for a saving of over $4,000,000 damage to Albertans.

A specially trained corps of pest control officers regularly inspect farmsteads in suspected areas. In 1958, 637 farms of 3,774 inspected were found to be infested. The pest control officers exterminated all but 52 colonies which were subsequently wiped out in a follow-up winter campaign.

The work of infestation occurs along a 20-mile wide strip stretching from Medicine Hat in the south to Cold Lake in the north. The pest control officers employed by the Department of Agriculture direct the control program. Over 20,000 pounds of dry-mix and 10,000 quarts of water-soluble bait were used to kill an estimated 58,000 rats last year.

The rat is commonly confused with the muskrat, although the two animals differ in a number of respects. A rat is usually brown in color; about 16 inches in total length including a seven-inch rounded scaly tail, and weighs about 11 or 12 ounces. The muskrat is much larger with a slightly flattened tail. It also has feathered or "webbed" feet which a rat does not have.

The doctor was fed up. The patient was always getting drunk, feeling terrible, and turning up for treatment. "What do you think I should do, Doctor? I'm feeling worse than ever," he moaned one morning, as he held his aching head.

St. Louis mon takes angling honors

The Recorder, Wakaw, Sask. Henry Thorinbert of St. Louis, Sask., has won first place honors and $75 in prize money in the annual anglers' competition sponsored by Field and Stream magazine.

Mr. Thorinbert was recently notified that his prize catch, a whopping 51-lb. 10-oz. trout, was rated as the largest trout caught by an angler on the North American continent during the 1958 sportfishing season.

The St. Louis angler landed the catch in the waters of Kingsinger Lake in Prince Albert National Park last summer following a furious 30-minute battle.

This "finny phenomenon" from the Saskatchewan north won Mr. Thorinbert other awards too. These included: top money of $25 in the trout class in 1958 Saskatchewan Anglers' Derby sponsored by the Saskatchewan Fish and Game League in co-operation with the Department of Travel and Information; first prize of $100 for the largest trout entered in the fish derby sponsored by the Prince Albert branch of the Saskatchewan Fish and Game League, and an award of $10 from the Waskesiu Board of Trade. The trout was the biggest fish ever entered in the Saskatchewan Anglers' Derby.

The trophy fish has been mounted and will be exhibited in the United States at 1959 sports shows.

A REFUGE IN THE STORM

Life is like the weather; some sunshine, some cloud; some calm, some storm. We get a share of each. Some storms we help to make for ourselves. In fact, any one who keeps Jesus Christ outside of his life, is in a state of inner conflict. For "All we like sheep have gone astray; we have turned every one to his own way." By nature we are rebels against God. Soon we learn from bitter experience that, "The way of transgressors is hard." Storms of our own making gather round us. It may be the storm of discontent. The rich young ruler lived a very respectable life. But there was a vacuum in his heart. He asked Jesus, "Master, what shall I do to inherit eternal life?" Luke 10:25. When Jesus pointed out what it would mean for him he was unwilling. He went away sorrowful.

Consider Saul, the young man of great promise who was chosen to be the first king of Israel. He accepted the honor in great humility. God gave him a new heart. The spirit of prophecy came upon him. After a time he became careless about his walk with God. Though being a king and a prophet, one day in impatience he usurped the office of the priest. He disobeyed God in sharing the best of the spoil of the Amalekites. Other sins followed such as jealousy and hatred of David. Finally the storm of his own making broke over his head. The evening before meeting the Philistines, in a witch's house, he exclaimed, "God is departed from me, and answereth me no more." The next day when his army was routed he fell on his own sword.

Saul's successor, David, brought a storm upon himself by committing adultery and then plotting a murder to cover his sin. But in the storm he found refuge. With deep sorrow he confessed his sins and pled for God's mercy. He received forgiveness. He found a refuge in the storm.

Those who obey God have storms, too. The disciples were obeying their Master in setting out across Lake Galilee when the storm broke. They were unprepared. But Jesus saw them. Through the storm and the darkness he came to them and said, "Be of good cheer; it is I; be not afraid." He entered their boat and there was calm.

In the storms of life let us look unto Jesus Christ. He will be our refuge and our strength.

National survey to be conducted on farm and farm home safety

Canada's first national survey on farm and farm home safety will be conducted over the next two months.

In making the announcement, Jack Whyte, Chairman of the Agriculture Committee of The Canadian Chamber of Commerce, said that the 73,000 enrolled in 4-H Clubs across Canada will be playing a key role through reporting the accidents on their home farms. The survey, itself, has been co-operatively organized and is being carried out by the Canadian Council on 4-H Clubs, the Provincial Departments of Agriculture, The Canadian Chamber of Commerce, the Canada Department of Agriculture and The Canadian Federation of Agriculture.

"There are no adequate national statistics at the present time on farm accidents," said Mr. C. A. Douglas, President, Canadian Council on 4-H Clubs. "However, we do know that farm accidents, in addition to causing much suffering and hardship, are responsible for serious loss of time, production and income to the farm industry. It is hoped that up to date information on the kind, cause and incidence of farm accidents will facilitate the development of better farm safety programs in Canada."

Mr. Whyte said all those concerned with the survey appealed to the farm parents and local 4-H Club leaders for assistance and co-operation in supplying statistical data to 4-H members. Questionnaires, to be filled out, would cover the period January 1 to December 31, 1958, and it is hoped to have results tabulated by next autumn.

Agriculture and business have long been interested in such a survey, and are in agreement that a co-operative effort is needed to develop an effective program of national farm safety. Although some sectors of Canada have developed farm safety programs that have produced a lower frequency of deaths and accidents, much remains to be accomplished in this field.

EAT THEM RAW
Since raw vegetables retain more of their valuable minerals and vitamins than when cooked, more salads should be eaten. It is a good idea to encourage children to nibble bits of raw carrot, turnip, potato, cauliflower and any other raw vegetable they like. Cooking or soaking vegetables, using too much water, can destroy much of their important vitamin and mineral content.

The Almighty dollar commands a lot of respect. But it doesn't go as far as politeness.

New Maple syrup, fresh from the trees and brimming with finest flavour, is appearing now in the stores.

Here is a maple dessert that's a modern version of an old French-Canadian favourite called "Grand-pères" (Grandfathers). Originally (and still the popular method in many homes) the dumplings were cooked in boiling maple syrup on top of the stove. Here, rectangular pieces of rich biscuit dough have been arranged on top of hot maple syrup in a baking dish and baked uncovered in a hot oven (425 deg. F.) for 15 to 20 minutes. Use 2 cups syrup for dough made from 2 cups of flour and bake the dumplings once with additional hot syrup shortly before the end of the cooking time.

MADEIRA LEVASON

"A NON-FREE WORLD"

I have just learned an entirely new meaning for the familiar words, "free world," from a little magazine which makes fascinating reading. Its constant use of the words has nothing to do with their meaning in the regular press. The magazine, is the "KP Telescope," published by the inmates of Kingston Penitentiary.

There is a saying that "men are freest when unconscious of freedom." The editors and writers of this magazine are most certainly not in this happy state. Their consciousness of walls, bars and other barriers they will have to face when they re-enter the free world is expressed throughout the editorials, fiction and news of prison activities.

It gives a sharp edge to their humor. Here is a sample from the poet's corner, entitled "For You"—

Hold up your head, Tom Dooley
Hold your head up high
At least you ain't a stooge—
Now go ahead and die.

The women's pages reflect it too in a review of a gala concert staged for and by the women prisoners. This included "a real fall house version in pantomime of Frankie and Johnny," singing, dancing, comedy and renditions by the "Angel choir."

The magazine, a monthly is said to be published "to provide a medium for expression and communication with the outside world and to promote a better understanding between inside and outside."

It is being offered to outsiders at a nominal subscription rate and good response is evident in congratulatory letters to the editor. One outside lady took a different view however. Her indignant letter demanded she be taken off the mailing list immediately.

She wrote that she knew her nephew had been responsible for sending her the publication. "I have nothing against the magazine, I realize it gives you something to do, but I am not really interested in anything about criminals. This includes my nephew."

WAMPUM

Wampum, which Indians sometimes used as a form of money, was beads made of shell. Very early settlers occasionally paid tax bills with wampum.

News Report From Edmonton

By Ken Mason

EDMONTON—As of the end of last week, the Alberta political picture remained pretty cloudy.

Only one thing was certain—all major political parties are preparing for an election sometime in June, with June 16, 22, 25 and 29 being mentioned by observers as the most likely dates.

At the time of writing, there was still a chance Premier Manning would flip his hand sometime over the weekend. If the vote is to be held in June, there will have to be an announcement before too long. The Election Act specifies a minimum of 39 days between the issuing of election writs and election day.

Premier Manning held a press conference last Friday and reporters were expecting him to announce the date of the forthcoming election. But he skillfully sidestepped all questions, and claimed: "All I know is what I read in the newspapers."

At week's end, 150 candidates had been named by all parties to contest the 65 seats at stake in the next election. Social Credit led the field with 52 in the field and more nominating conventions coming up within the next two weeks.

Progressive Conservatives were next with 46 candidates nominated, while Liberals placed third with 32 and CCF trailed with 20.

While the premier refused to be drawn out on the date of the election last week, he did let the press in on his own plans. He announced he will let his name stand for nomination in the Edmonton riding of Strathcona East.

The Strathcona East nominating convention of the Social Crediters was scheduled for Monday of this week, and there was no doubt Premier Manning would get the nomination. His announcement, however, did end speculation as to where the premier would run for election.

In making his announcement, the premier turned down an invitation from Liberal MLA Abe W. Miller to run in the Edmonton riding of Jasper West.

Mr. Miller's invitation was contained in a letter to Alberta daily newspapers. He and J. Percy Page, Conservative MLA are running in Jasper West, and the letter pointed out that it would make an interesting three-way race. In fact, Mr. Miller said, it would give voters a chance to "kill two birds with one stone."

Premier Manning's reaction: "I haven't anything against either of the birds . . . I wouldn't want to see their extinction."

For the record, standing in the legislature by parties at present is as follows:

Social Credit, 37; Liberal, 15; Progressive Conservative, 3; CCF, 2; Independent, 1; Independent Social Credit, 1; Coalition, 1; Liberal-Conservative, 1; total, 61.

As the week ended, political guessers were still pondering the election talk. Adding significance to the talk was a report Premier Manning planned to go on the air with a province-wide radio and television talk.

Mr. Manning also used his press conference to get in a few digs at the federal government.

Commenting on a report that Ottawa has not yet chosen a route for a proposed new railway to the Northwest Territories, he said the federal government is "glad for an excuse to put it on the shelf."

He said Ottawa "bit off more than it could chew" when it promised the rail link would be built to the mineral-rich south shore of Great Slave Lake. He indicated the dispute in Alberta over the northeastern route vs. the northwestern route is giving federal officials an excuse to shelve the plan.

Regarding difficulties facing the Alberta oil industry, he said Ottawa doesn't seem to recognize the serious effect on the country's economy. The lifting of import quotas by the U.S. government isn't enough, he said. What is required is federal pressure on major oil companies to accept more western Canadian crude oil at U.S. refineries.

A nation grows: During 1958's first quarter 158,206 babies were born in Canada.

Current Comment...

● Here is an extract from an editorial appearing in the current issue of Maclean's Magazine with which many will agree.

"Every few years some political party terrifies the wealthier citizens of Canada by urging a further boost in the old-age pension, on the ground that no elderly person can possibly live on the stipend he is getting. Whenever this happens, anguished editorialists point out that the old-age pension was never intended as a living wage, that it is only supposed to be a supplement to personal savings, and that any further increase will tumble us into bankruptcy, inflation, ruination and the welfare state."

"However, since few people are rich and since many remain stubbornly in favor of welfare, we predict that the old-age pension will continue to rise from time to time as the years go by. But for the comfort both of those who want a pension they can live on, and of those who want to keep the cost down, we have a constructive suggestion:

"Remove the prohibition against old-age pensioners leaving Canada for more than six months at a time."

"It may be impossible to live in Canada on fifty-five dollars a month, but in some parts of the world it is easy. By no coincidence, these happen also to be parts of the world where the climate is less severe, where a man doesn't have to spend about a quarter of a minimum income just keeping himself warm, and where the evening of life can be spent in more comfort than Canada provides. In places like Mallorca, or the islands in the eastern Mediterranean, or the less tourist-struck parts of the West Indies, a Canadian old-age pensioner would almost be classed among the rich."

"To let him go there, if he likes, would not cost the Canadian taxpayer a nickel."

"The old-age pension is not charity. It is an annuity from the state to which we all contribute, and have been contributing for some time—no one gets it who has lived in Canada less than ten years."

"Having paid for it, we ought to be free to take it and spend it where we choose."

Britannia aircraft streaks across the above layout as it will through the skies of Canada on May 4 when CPA's new daily cross-Canada service links Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver. Cutting one hour, 25 minutes from existing commercial airline flying time between Vancouver and Montreal, CPA will become the first Canadian airline to provide tourist accommodation in a jet-prop plane. The operator, seated behind pilots, flicks switches to create every type of in-flight situation which a pilot might encounter. At bottom, route map indicates mileages and east bound flying times between cities to be served by CPA, and also shows international connections at each end of new route.

Bread as a Basic Nutritious Food

Knowledge is one of today's greatest challenges. Let's stop for a few moments then, and consider how much we know about one of our most common foods. The question is "How much do you know about bread?"

1. Is bread fattening? Many foods are erroneously described as fattening. Actually no single food will cause a gain in weight. A person's weight goes above normal only when the total amount of food consumed is more than the body needs for normal activity. Bread should not be referred to as a "fattening" food, any more than radishes or grapefruit or roast beef should. An average slice of enriched white or whole wheat bread provides about 75 calories—the same as a glass of skim milk, an egg or a medium sized banana.

2. Is whole wheat bread considered best nutritionally? Before enriched white bread was available in Canada, most doctors and nutritionists agreed the whole wheat was the best nutritionally. Now that enriched bread and other enriched bakery foods are available in every community in Canada, they provide almost equally good sources of essential nutrients. Whole wheat bread is still slightly superior in some respects, but those who prefer white bread can now get the most essential nutrients, proteins, carbohydrates, B vitamins and the mineral iron from enriched white bread.

3. Does toasting change the caloric value of bread? Toasting changes only the moisture content, the texture and the appearance of bread. The caloric value cannot change because the calories are not produced until the bread or toast is eaten and digested.

4. What specific food nutrients are added to flour and bread during the enrichment process? White flour is enriched during the milling process, by adding three B vitamins, thiamine, riboflavin and niacin, and the mineral iron, plus specified amounts of skin milk solids, which further increase its nutritive value and flavor.

White bread is enriched, following regulation defined by the same Act, by adding specified amounts of the three B vitamins and iron, plus specified amounts of skin milk solids, which further increase its nutritive value and flavor.

Card of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere thanks to Drs. Caldwell and Klein, the matron and staff of the Viking hospital for their kindness and attention to Mr. A. W. J. Kennet during his stay in the hospital, and also our sincere thanks to the pall bearers for their assistance and time given. —Mrs. Susannah Kennet.

New Beds and Mattresses

Prior to the meeting the matron presented to the finance committee a request to have eight of the old beds replaced. She had obtained a price of $105.00 for the beds and $45.00 for the mattresses and was given permission to go ahead with the purchase. Approval of this purchase was moved and carried.

Visiting Hours

A request from the Doctors to have the visiting hours shortened was presented to the board. After considerable discussion in this regard it was moved and carried that the visiting period during the week be one hour per day and alternate afternoons and evenings. Sundays and Holidays—afternoon and evening be open for visiting.

Out-Patient Department

Moved and carried that persons wishing to see the doctor at the hospital in the morning must be in before 11:30 a.m. Only emergent cases will be accepted

WITH THE District Agriculturist

By J. S. Duncan

Watch For Cutworm Damage

Cutworms were a problem in some districts last year. Because conditions were near ideal at egg laying time last year, it is likely we will have some serious problems this year. There are chemicals available which can be sprayed on to control damage. It is important to be aware of the possibility and keep watch for damage if chemicals are to be of any use to you. First signs of damage are small bare patches showing up in the fields and when examined closely the plants will be seen to have been cut or eaten off at or below the surface of the ground. The chemicals used for control can be applied with a field sprayer but it requires much more water than spraying for weeds, so if you have a larger set of spray jets it will be a help.

Livestock Improvement Policies

The Alberta Department of Agriculture has assistance policies to help commercial stockmen improve the quality of the sires they are using. The sheep policy provides $12.00 toward purchase of an "A" grade ram or $8.00 toward a "B" grade ram. The swine policy provides $10.00 on the purchase of a boar costing over $50.00 and $5.00 on a boar under $50.00. The cattle policy provides 20% of the cost up to a maximum of $75.00 on the purchase of a purebred bull. In order to get this assistance the buyer must complete an application available from this office and the animal must pass inspection by the Livestock Branch before it can be bought. Full information and application forms are available from my office.

Bangs Regulations

The Bangs vaccination of heifer calves is compulsory in all Bangs Restricted Areas. Another point which is often overlooked is that any female animal being brought into a Bangs Restricted Area must be either vaccinated or blood tested. The responsibility for this rests on the man bringing the stock in and anyone failing to comply with these regulations is liable to a penalty under the Livestock Diseases Act.

Glen-Coa Gleanings

Mr. and Mrs. August Frauenfeld and baby daughter of Edmonton were weekend visitors at the R. Erickson home. They have recently returned to the city after spending the winter in Vancouver where August has been attending University.

Mrs. Lily Mackay was home to spend Mother's Day as were Mr. and Mrs. Stan Berg and children of Gwynne accompanied by Mrs. E. Forsberg and two little daughters. Thus Mrs. Withall had most of her family at home for the special occasion.

Mr. Oren Spring of Drayton Valley was also home last weekend, and Mr. Gordon Hollinger, too, of Edmonton. The latter divided his time between his home here and Hollinger.

Mrs. Hollinger shared her Mother's Day bouquet of beautiful tulips with Sharon congregation last Sunday by placing them on the altar for the special confirmation service.

The confirmation service, the confidants being Misses Esther and Evelyn Fluevog. A congregational dinner followed the service. A festive touch prevailed by having a special table for the guests of honor which included the two girls and their parents, Dr. Ekedahl their grandfather, Pastor and Mrs. Magee, and those who have joined Sharon congregation most recently. A few speeches were given, and a Bible case was presented to Esther and Evelyn by Mrs. Rasmak who has been their Sunday School teacher these past years.

A goodly number of Sharon folk motored to Trinity Lutheran church last Sunday afternoon to hear the Camrose College choir. The singing of these 62 young people under the direction of Mr. Rasmak is truly a thrilling experience.

Mr. Kjeld Lunsgaard-Leth of Denmark is going to give Erling Nilson a helping hand throughout this coming summer.

We trust many will attend the meeting at Sharon on Friday evening, May 15, at 8 p.m. conducted by Rev. Carl Johnson of CLBE.

"AS OTHERS SEE US"

"The real Canada begins at Winnipeg," is a sweeping statement that you might expect to hear from a westerner. I was intrigued to hear it made the other day by a British immigrant.

"I mean the Canada, we always visualize, the wide open spaces and the friendly people," she added rather hastily. "Not that eastern Canadians are unfriendly, just that the west is so different."

She was stammering apologetically when I persisted in wanting to know just how it seemed so different in her eyes.

In England, she told me, we always hear about Canada's great distances but when you first see the western prairies it's the space which really staggers you.

She said all Britishers have a definite idea that all Canadians are very informal and friendly. Actually she had found eastern Canadians "friendly but—every bit as reserved as we English are supposed to be."

On her first trip across the Canadian west she was charmed by the friendliness that prompted business contacts to invite her to their homes or offer to show her around their cities.

Sunshine was next on the list of her impressions. "Such sparkling sunshine . . . and those prairie sunsets," she enthused. Western accents were another impression she singled out. "I know Canadians don't think they have any marked regional accents," she informed me, "but they certainly have to my ears." She found the soft western drawl charming.

One incident which made a vivid impression on her of western expansiveness occurred while she was waiting a plane at the Calgary airport.

"I actually saw a small sporty plane fly in and land; a well-dressed man hop out; run into the waiting room; buy a newspaper and then jump back in his plane and take off again," she related.

"Imagine flying somewhere by a newspaper!"

Sask. newsmen's petroleum economics symposium

Oil Companies operating in Saskatchewan have spent 530 million dollars more than they have received from sales of crude oil. This fact was revealed May 5 by V. H. Hunter, Manager of Imperial Oil's Saskatchewan Producing Division, in a talk presented to newsmen at the Hotel Saskatchewan. Mr. Hunter was the first speaker during a full day's program sponsored by the Canadian Petroleum Association for representatives of news media from all over Saskatchewan.

This money was spent on land, exploration, drilling, production equipment and pipeline. "Continued exploration in the area depends mainly on the type of encouragement oil companies receive," Mr. Hunter said. "A major discovery at this time would undoubtedly add great impetus to exploring work."

Mr. Hunter cautioned his audience against over optimism. Recent discoveries in Alberta and north eastern B.C. have turned the eyes of industry in that direction. Saskatchewan producers have had disappointing results from exploration work in the past year and a half. Oil companies, he stressed, spend their money where prospects look brightest.

He compared Canada's production with other oil producing areas of the world. Canada's production of 451,000 barrels per day during 1954 came from over 12,000 wells while countries like Iran produced 822,000 barrels per day from 80 wells. Kuwait had a total of 302 wells producing 1.4 million barrels per day.

New trip on STC route

Two new trips designed to improve through bus connections between southern and northern Saskatchewan, have been added to the Regina-Saskatoon schedule of the Saskatchewan Transportation Company R. E. Reilly, Sales Manager of the company, announced.

One trip will originate at Regina, with an STC bus leaving the city at 1:00 p.m. daily for Saskatoon. The second trip will originate in Saskatoon, at 1:00 p.m. daily, and will run to Regina. All schedules will operate on Mountain Standard Time.

The addition of these new trips to the Regina-Saskatoon service will serve to improve STC bus connections from points such as Estevan and Weyburn in the south, to Saskatoon and points beyond such as North Battleford and Prince Albert. The south-bound schedule will provide direct connections from Prince Albert, Humboldt, Roseburg and other points in the north, to Regina and points beyond Regina in the south.

The addition of this 1:00 p.m. schedule will give bus passengers the choice of four schedules every day in each direction.

Life expectancy for women in Canada is 73 years; for men it is 68 years.

KIDS AREN'T THE ONLY ONES that come out from under cover when spring arrives. All nature seems to begin stretching about this time. But we have yet to see anything stretch so fast as the bed full of pansies in the yard of Mrs. V. M. Kemp, which have been blooming for the past two weeks. They didn't even wait for all the snow to melt. Just opened up their saucy little faces to the warm spring sun and soaked in all the heat they could get. It is amazing that they could stand the cold of the mornings and evenings, but here is a picture that is positive proof of their hardiness. These pansies ain't no pansies. They died with their roots on.

M.P.'s attend unofficial Seaway opening

This is a report from Ernest Pascoe, M.P.

Along with many other Members I was privileged to take part in the unofficial opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway. We were passengers on the icebreaker D'Iberville, the first vessel to pass through the St. Lambert lock at Montreal and lead the parade of freighters to the St. Catherine lock. The Seaway will bring on-going freighters more than 2,500 miles inland to the Lakehead at Fort William. Because of this new water connection closer to the Prairies it was interesting to note that the channel we took between the two locks went through what is called the LaPrairie Basin of the St. Lawrence River. I thought it was a good omen for the West to start out on the great project with some reference to the Prairies.

It is not too clear, as yet, just how great will be the benefit to Western Canada in having salt water freighters calling almost at the West's doorstep. The saving in shipping costs for Prairie wheat will be at least 5 cents a bushel because this much has already been announced by the Canadian Wheat Board and has been added to the Lakehead wheat price. This means an extra payment to the wheat growers through the Wheat Board on wheat shipped from Fort William.

The Seaway project is something like a giant escalator, or elevator, lifting westbound ships, and lowering eastbound ships, a total of 224 feet—the difference in the levels between Lake Ontario and Montreal harbor on the St. Lawrence. These are seven gigantic locks for this rising and lowering job. The locks are 800 feet long, massive structures of concrete and hydraulic mechanism. The St. Lambert lock lifts vessels up to 730 feet long a height of 15 feet to get around a river obstacle called St. Mary's current. The St. Catherine lock lifts the ship another 30 feet to by-pass the LaChapelle Rapids.

The unofficial opening was a sort of trial run, a rehearsal for the official opening by Her Majesty the Queen Elizabeth on June 26. As we passed through the St. Lambert lock on the D'Iberville we were the vanguard of an armada of sea-going freighters from many parts of the world. The freighters and tankers, most of them decked out in flags and bunting and many of them with fresh coats of paint, carried a great variety of goods and products in their holds. On the opening day the long line up of ships presented a problem, but once the initial rush is over operations are expected to run smoothly. Incidentally as we passed through the first lock, someone among the thousands on the pier shouted,

Want to buy water?

—The Times, Nkomini, Sask.

A new industry is waiting for development by an enterprising group of businessmen, says Forbes Gibberton in The Financial Post. That business is selling water. The scheme is simple. The company would pump raw water from large lakes and rivers to artificial reservoirs near water-short municipalities. The municipalities would snap it up, the scheme's proponents say, because:

It would give them a dependable supply of raw water without heavy capital outlay.

A private company could sell to a group of towns, thus increasing the output and cutting costs.

Kinistino by-election set for June 3

Wednesday, June 3, has been set as the date of a provincial by-election in Kinistino constituency, it was announced by Premier T. C. Douglas. The election has been called to fill the vacancy in the provincial Legislature caused by the death of Henry Begrand, who was a Member of the Legislative Assembly from 1952.

Nomination day has been set for Tuesday, May 19, and Edward J. Brunynski of Wakaw has been appointed returning officer.

In commenting on the calling of the election Premier Douglas said:

"Whenever a vacancy has occurred in the Legislature it has been customary to call an election as soon as possible. A by-election has been called in Kinistino constituency in order that the electors will be represented in the Legislative Assembly of the Province."

Newstand operators responsible

Magazine and periodical distributors in Alberta will strengthen their efforts to stem the influx of undesirable reading material on the province's news stands. The distributors made the offer at a meeting in the Legislative Building recently with the Alberta Board of Objectionable Publications.

News stand operators are not required to accept anything any publication, the Board was told. Magazines they display are there by their own choice. Board members felt expressed public disapproval would encourage their withdrawal.

The meeting, chaired by Board Chairman Mrs. A. J. Maue, was attended by the Hon. A. R. Patrick, Minister of Economic Affairs, Ralph R. Moore, Deputy Minister, and H. C. Wilson, Deputy Attorney General of Alberta.

Pigs average pound-per day for RV agro

Warren Rodden, of rural Rose Valley, believes he has established a record and if not, he thinks this item will make interesting reading for anyone raising livestock.

He sold four pigs in Winnipeg livestock market that were only 146 days old. Each of the four had gained about one pound a day or greater in weight. The four weighed 166, 157, 149 and 144 pounds respectively, rail grade at Winnipeg.

The pigs came from a litter by a Yorkshire-Landrace cross, born October 22, 1953.
